In cold, foggy London lived Gladys.

A little woman with a big dream.

Gladys longed to go to China.

At missionary school, she tried her best...
... but it didn't seem to be enough.

"Sorry Gladys," said her teacher,
"but you can't go to China".

Gladys had never been that sad before.

One day, Gladys heard about Jeannie, an elderly missionary in China who needed help.

“I’ll go!” offered Gladys.

But a train ticket to China was expensive, and all Gladys had were a few coins.

She sighed and put them on top of her Bible.

"Oh God," she prayed, "here's my Bible!
Here's my money! Here's me! Use me, God!"

Gladys worked hard every day and saved
all her money until she had enough...

... for a train ticket to China!

But the journey wasn't easy. Her train stopped in Siberia and wouldn't go any further.

Gladys had to cross a dark forest,
surrounded by packs of hungry wolves.

She met scary people who thought
she was a spy.

She sneaked onto a ship that took her to Japan.

“Shhhhh.”

She then took another boat...
another train...
a bus...

... and lastly a donkey!
