On the day of her eighth birthday, Helen sat in Sunday school cutting and sticking pictures of far-away countries and, in her heart, made a decision:

“When I grow up, I will travel the world and tell other boys and girls about Jesus.”

And, being the determined girl that she was, Helen’s mind was made up once and for all.

When she started university to become a doctor,
Helen worried.

She worried she wouldn't make any friends.

She worried she wouldn't do well with her exams.

She worried she didn't really know God after all.

Then, one evening, Helen looked up and found a Bible verse written on a wall:

BE STILL, AND KNOW THAT I AM GOD.

PSALM 46 v 10

At once, Helen knew that God was with her. And a big sense of peace and stillness filled her worried heart.

After finishing university, Helen went to missionary-training school, where she spent her time studying the Bible and wondering where in the world God would send her.

Then, one day, the missionary school received a call for help from Congo, a big country in the centre of Africa.

“We need more doctors!”

Thankfully, they had the perfect person for the job!
